Class & Workshop Schedule 2010

Creating Watercolor Paintings From Photos. Tuesdays, May 4 – May 25, 6:00 – 8:30pm. Digital cameras make it easy to catch interesting scenes, fleeting light effects and snapshots of paintable scenes that you don't have the time to paint. Simple design principles will help in turning reference photos into terrific watercolor paintings. In this class, learn how to crop the scene, move the elements and make color choices that turn photos into great watercolor compositions.

Class participants will work from their own photos, with guidance and instruction from the instructor.

Offered through the Southwest Vermont Career Development Center on Park Street in Bennington, Vermont.

Plein Air Painting – Three Sessions

Summer Plein Air Painting, Saturday & Sunday, July 10 & 11, 10am – 4pm .

Autumn Plein Air Painting, Saturday & Sunday, September 25 & 26, 10am – 4pm

Saturday & Sunday, October 16 & 17, 10am – 4pm

These classes focus on the unique experience of painting "en plein air" – both the pleasures and the challenges - as well as on the skills and techniques needed to quickly capture changing light effects and to make plein air paintings successful in varied conditions. Class meets on the grounds of the Taraden Bed & Breakfast, North Bennington, VT and will paint in various locations in around the quintessential Vermont community of North Bennington. Class fee - $150 for each weekend long class.

Watercolor Beginners Weekend - Saturday & Sunday, August 7 & 8, 2010. Are you a beginning watercolor painter, or just feeling like one. This weekend long workshop is for the beginner, near-beginner, and anyone who finds the watercolor a bit confounding. Over the course of the two days, we'll unlock the mysteries of the watercolor medium. At the end of the weekend, each participant will understand - how to create glowing, transparent washes; how to mix the color they want everytime; the fundamentals of composition; the value scale; the relationship between value and color; and basic composition. Class meets at the Taraden Bed & Breakfast Media Barn, North Bennington, VT. Class fee - $150 for the weekend long class
